

Contents

List of Maps

List of Diagrams and Illustrations

List of Photographs

Acknowledgements

Introduction

- |                   |   |
|-------------------|---|
| Chapter 1  | The Nisibis War (337–363): Thesis, Sources, and Methodology                             |
| Chapter 2  | Background of the Nisibis War   |
| Chapter 3  | The Military Aspects of the Geography   |
| Chapter 4  | The Mid-Fourth Century Roman Army and the Strategic Defence of the East                 |
| Chapter 5  | The Persian Army and the Strategic Offence  |
| Chapter 6  | Roman Active Defence, 337–350   |
| Chapter 7  | Stalemate in Persia 350–358   |
| Chapter 8  | From the Hopeless Depths of Misery to the Height of Power: The Failure of Caesar Gallus |
| Chapter 9  | Usurpation and Crisis: Campaign in the West 350–355                                     |
| Chapter 10 | Caesar Julian: ‘An Emperor in Strategy, a Commander in Tactics, a Hero in Combat’       |
| Chapter 11 | Roman Passive Defence 358–361   |

Chapter 12 Roman Strategic Offence, 362–363

Chapter 13 The March Down River

Chapter 14 The March Up Country

Chapter 15 Conclusion

Appendix I: Glossary

Appendix II: Eastern Armies of the Notitia Dignitatum

Bibliography

Notes